

THE MESSAGE OF THE MASTER
THERION.

DO WHAT THOU WILT SHALL BE THE WHOLE OF THE LAW.

IN the Eleventh Year of the Aeon of Horus, the Sun our Father being in 18 degrees of the Sign Libra, and the Moon in 8 degrees of the Sign Sagittarius did NEMO that had sat nameless in the City of the Pyramids beneath the Night of Pan for Five Score and Six seasons, according to the word of the prophecy in Liber CDXVIII, having taken the Hand of the Prelate, the Scarlet Woman, Hilarion, and having been led by her through the appointed Pylons, become ΘHPION a Magus 9^o - 2^o of the A.:A.:, the Great White Brotherhood of Light.

Now therefore must he of necessity take up the Curse of his Grade, and preach his Law to men. Here then is this Law as it is written in the Book of the Law. Do what thou wilt shall be the whole of the Law.

There is no Law beyond Do what thou wilt.

The word of the Law is ΘΕΛΗΜΑ.

Now it is said of the Magus that in the beginning doth

he speak truth, and send forth Illusion and Falsehood to enslave the soul. If so, let it not be his fault ; let him make clear the meaning of his Law. It is said "Let Him beware of abstinence from action. For the curse of His grade is that He must Speak Truth, that the Falsehood thereof may enslave men."

The Key is this word ΘΕΑΗΜΑ—Will. Negatively, the first obvious meaning of this Law is confirmed by antithesis : The word of Sin is Restriction.

Again : "Thou hast no right but to do thy will.

Do that and no other shall say nay. For pure will, unassuaged of purpose, delivered from the lust of result, is every way perfect."

Take this carefully ; it seems to imply a theory that if every man and every woman did his and her will—the true will—there would be no clashing. "Every man and every woman is a star", and each star moves in an appointed path without interference. There is plenty of room for all ; it is only disorder that creates confusion.

From these considerations it should be clear that "Do what thou wilt" does not mean "Do what you like". It is the apotheosis of Freedom ; but it is also the strictest possible bond. It is that harmony of Legis Jugum and Libertas Evangelii which we once saw upon the little table above the Pastos of Our Father Christian Rosencreutz.

Do what thou wilt—then do nothing else. Let nothing deflect thee from that austere and holy task. Liberty is absolute to do thy will ; but seek to do any other thing whatever, and instantly obstacles must arise. Every act that is not in definite course of that one orbit is erratic, an hindrance. Will must not be two, but one.

Note further that this will is not only to be pure, that is, single, as explained above, but also "unassuaged of purpose". This strange phrase must give us pause. It may mean that any purpose in the will would damp it ; clearly the "lust of result" is a thing from which it must be delivered. The Hindu doctrines confirm this. Better still, we have in our own Holy Books the following passage :

"Also the Holy One came upon me, and I beheld a white swan floating in the blue.

Between its wings I sate, and the aeons fled away.

Then the swan flew and dived and soared, yet no whither we went.

A little crazy boy that rode with me spake unto the swan and said :

Who art thou that dost float and fly and dive and soar in the inane? Behold, these many aeons have passed; whence camest thou? Whither wilt thou go?

And laughing I chid him, saying: No whence! No whither!

The swan being silent, he answered: Then, if with no goal, why this eternal journey?

And I laid my head against the Head of the Swan, and laughed, saying: Is there not joy ineffable in this aimless winging? Is there not weariness and impatience for who would attain to some goal?

And the swan was ever silent. Ah! but we floated in the infinite Abyss. Joy! Joy!

White swan, hear thou ever me up between thy wings!"

(LXV. II. 17-25.)

But the phrase may also be interpreted as if it read "with purpose unassuaged" i.e. with tireless energy. The conception is therefore of an eternal motion, infinite and unalterable. It is Nirvana, only dynamic instead of static—and this comes to the same thing in the end.

The obvious practical task of the magician is then to discover what his will really is, so that he may do it in this manner; and he can best accomplish this by the practices of Liber Thisarb or such others as may from one time to another be appointed.

It should now be perfectly simple for everybody to understand the Message of the Master Therion.

Thou must

- (1.) Find out what is thy Will.
- (2.) Do that Will with (a) one-pointedness
(b) detachment
(c) peace

Then, and then only, art thou in harmony with the Movement of Things, thy will part of, and therefore one with, and therefore essential to, and therefore equal to, the Will of God. And since the will is but the dynamic aspect of the self, and since two different selves could not possess identical wills; then, if thy will be God's will, Thou art That.

There is but one other word to explain. Elsewhere it is written—surely for our great comfort—"Love is the Law, Love under Will."

This is to be taken as meaning that while Will is the Law, the nature of that Will is Love. But this Love is as it were a by-product of that Will; it does not contradict or supersede that Will; and if apparent contradiction should arise in any crisis, it is the Will that will guide us aright. Love is easy counterfeited. Lo, while in the Book of the Law is much of Love, there is no word of sentimentality. Hate itself is almost like Love! Fighting most certainly is Love! "As brothers fight ye!" All the manly races of the world understand this. The Love of Liber Legis is always bold, virile, ecstatic, even orgiastic. There is delicacy, but it is the delicacy of strength. Mighty and terrible and glorious as it is, however, it is but the pennon upon the sacred lance of Will, the damascened inscription upon the swords of the Knight-monks of Thelema.

LOVE IS THE LAW, LOVE
UNDER WILL.
